EXPRESS CALL FOR SPEAKERS

Starring Space Women

NeoSpace Europe is the evolution of NewSpace Europe, reflecting the growing maturity of the commercial space sector and the need for a platform focused on real opportunities and meaningful connections. Under the tagline Navigating Emerging Opportunities, the conference explores the forces shaping the future of space: market trends, emerging technologies, new companies and the next generation of talent.

The conference puts networking, collaboration and business development at the centre of the experience. Hosted in Luxembourg — a country known for its innovative and forward-looking approach to space — the transition from “New” to “Neo” symbolises a new phase: a more mature, agile and opportunity-focused platform bringing together the global space ecosystem to navigate the next frontier of the space economy.

Eager to give a more central stage to women– we are launching an express call for speaker, only open to female space professionals.

The selected proposal will be invited to an onstage fireside chat with our NeoSpace Europe’s host, Chris Brow, to share her experience in the space sector and inspire the next generation of talents making of the space sector a more diverse and open domain.

Applicants who are not selected to participate in the fireside chat may be considered for speaking opportunities on other stages and will be automatically re-entered into the general Call for Speakers selection process.

We invite you to share your knowledge, insights, and experiences on the stage of NeoSpace Europe. In-person participation is mandatory for all speakers.

Please note that all proposals will be carefully reviewed by our selection committee, and selected based on relevance, quality, presenter credibility and presentation format.
